

America's Chief Killer--What YOU Can DO

Reds Attack From Cambodia

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist Viet Cong guerrillas poured across the Cambodian border early Saturday attacking a Vietnamese provincial capital and six border posts, it was reported Sunday.

An American military spokesman said 36 defenders were killed, 23 wounded and 10 missing in a series of sneak attacks that began at 2 a.m. and continued until dawn.

A total of 87 weapons including three mortars were captured by the Viet Cong who concentrated their attacks on the isolated outpost of Binh Thanh Thon, right on the border.

Young Commies Fight At Rally

BERLIN (AP) — Western border guards reported Sunday night fist fights broke out among blue-shirted members of the Communist youth brought to East Berlin for a huge rally. They said Red police moved in with nightsticks drawn to break up the rows.

Unruly crowds gathered in scattered districts of East Berlin after the breakup of a big march by hundreds of thousands of young people staged as a massive propaganda display.

The East German authorities were well prepared for trouble as they took the risk of holding the first big youth rally in East Berlin in 10 years.

The 10,000 guards along the Berlin wall were reinforced. Extra police patrols were on the streets. Armored cars were seen moving into the city Saturday.

Chou Foresees China Rapport

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China was quoted Sunday as saying the situation may change in Formosa, making it possible for the Chinese Communists and Nationalists to work together.

In an interview with Kiyoshi Iwanoto, managing director of Japan's Kyodo News Service, in Peking Saturday, Chou said the United States had withdrawn its support of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime in South Viet Nam and that it might do the same to the Chiang Kai-shek government on Taiwan.

The Communists and Nationalists cooperated on two other occasions in the past and to do so in the future is not impossible, he said.

Ole Miss Asks Riot Damages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has recommended paying $66,913 to the University of Mississippi for damages caused by federal troops sent in after the riotous 1962 enrollment of Negro student James H. Meredith. The U.S. comptroller general's office has rejected the recommendation.

A spokesman for the office, confirming this Sunday, said if the university wishes to press its claim further it will have to take its case either to the U.S. Court of Claims or to a federal district court, depending on the type of action involved.

The spokesman said the university originally presented three claims totaling $104,544 and other Mississippi officials planned to file a fourth asking in excess of $100,000 for damages to the municipal airport at Oxford where heavy transport planes landed with troops and equipment.

Argentina Gets Military Aid

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The United States, worried about the possibility that neighboring Chile will elect a Communist-backed government, is making Argentina the chief target of military aid in Latin America, an informed U.S. source said Sunday.

"Argentina stands out as our best bet for strengthening the hemispheric defense system against the threat of communism," said the American official connected with the military assistance program.

Editor's Note — Heart diseases killed more people in Monroe County last year than any other form of disease.

Of the 468 persons who died in Monroe during 1963, a total of 186 dies of heart diseases. Here a prize-winning science writer and a nationally known heart specialist have teamed up to tell you what positive action you can do to fend off or fight down a heart attack or stroke. This is the first of twelve articles.

By Alton Blakelee and Jeremiah Stamler, M.D.

Every hour the roster lengthens, name by name.
Stouffer... Jones... Baker... Wendt... Sullivan... McFadden... Radcliffe... Cohen... only 31 to 60 years old each dead of a heart attack.

None died from either a bug, bullet or bomb.

Each had lived his way into a premature heart attack. By habit or choice, each had run certain risks that raised his chances of being stricken. His seemingly sudden heart attack had been building up to crisis for years.

Yet—had he known and had he acted—each could have reduced any of nine risk factors which, by all we know, make a man more susceptible to a heart attack far too early in life.

He could have acted... and you still can.

months time you can reduce your risks.

Each day, on the average, heart disease kills 1,400 Americans, and cerebral brain strokes take another 500 lives. In total the toll is more than a life a minute, and uncounted hundreds of thousands are crippled every year.

We know the name of the killer.

It is atherosclerosis, the hardening and thickening, clogging and narrowing of the vital arteries carrying nourishing blood to the muscle tissue of your heart, and to the cells of your brain demanding life-sustaining oxygen.

Spotting The Villains
Your heart is the sturdiest, toughest muscle of your body. In our epidemic of heart disease, thousands of hearts are still, which are actually too good, too sound, to die prematurely.

The basic cause in interference with the heart's own supply lines or arteries from atherosclerosis, a kind of biological rust.

Secondly, we know from half a century and more of brilliant medical detective work, that atherosclerosis really is due to a conspiracy of factors.

There is no one single cause, but rather a constellation of causes. Now we know the chief suspects in this deadly syndicate.

Look to the roll call:
High blood pressure.
High levels of cholesterol, a particularly dangerous fatty material, in the bloodstream.
Overweight.

Excessive eating, especially of certain types of fats and cholesterol.

Too little exercise and physical activity.

Diabetes.

Excessive Cigarette smoking. Tensions and stresses. Heredity.

If you are beset by any one of them, your risk of a premature heart attack is boosted two to six times above the risk of the person free from such a burden. With a combination of factors, your risk is far higher.

A man's chances of having a heart attack before age 65 are only about 1 to 20 to 1 in 50 if he has normal weight, normal blood pressure, average or low levels of blood cholesterol, no diabetes, is not a heavy cigarette smoker, is moderately active, and has no damage to his kidneys or thyroid gland.

You Can Do Something
His chances rise to 1 in 2—or 50 per cent!—if he is being shadowed by two or three of the syndicate members, such as high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure, or obesity.

These odds are not drawn from a hat. They are based upon what actually happened to apparently healthy middle-aged men who lived with one or more of these risk factors.

But you are not helpless. You can do something about each of these risks. You can plan to enjoy a longer life.

With diet, or diet combined with drugs, you can control high blood pressure and diabetes, reducing their dangers.

The cigarette smoker who quits his habit finds his risk falling toward that of the non-smoker.

The obese man who reduces begins paying the standard rate for his life insurance, instead of an extra fee.

The amount of cholesterol in the bloodstream can be reduced through moderate changes in what we eat.

We have, now, a very solid foundation of scientific knowledge from which to fight back against the toll of premature heart attacks and strokes, especially among the middle-aged.

We have strong prospects of saving hundreds of thousands of lives, and adding 10 to 20 more years to our lives.

Laos Reports Reds Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma said Sunday that Communist forces have launched a large-scale attack on neutralist positions in the strategic Plain des Jarres region in north-central Laos.

The International Control Commission, set up by the 1962 Geneva accords to supervise Laos' belated neutrality, underlined the gravity of the situation by hastily evacuating its observer team from the area. An Indian member of the ob-

Kremlin Shakeup Forecast

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party Sunday announced the death of a presidium member Otto Wigelmovich Kuusinen, one of the last direct links of the party leadership with Lenin. He was 82.

Kuusinen's death left a vacancy on the party's 12-man presidium, supreme ruling body of the Soviet Union, which indicated an imminent shakeup in the power elite.

There was speculation that Premier Khrushchev would cut short his Egyptian trip and that first deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan would rush home from Tokyo to take a direct hand in the reshuffle.

Apparently considering Kuusinen an amenable follower, Khrushchev had him appointed to the presidium in July 1957 when he ousted Georgi Malenkov, Vach-slov Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich as an "anti-party" group.

The now necessary shifting about also provides an opportunity to replace ailing Frol Kozlov, incapacitated by a stroke, and Nikolai Shvernik who, at 76, is also in poor health.

Cuban Exiles Vow Action On Island

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Periodic short-wave broadcasts telling Cubans that "the hour is very near" were heard Sunday as a showdown approached on pledges by militant anti-Castro exiles to go into Cuba.

The refugee colony buzzed with rumors that revolutionary forces of Manuel Ray, who had set a deadline for Wednesday, Cuba's independence day, already were inside Cuba. Ray's headquarters here declined to confirm or deny the reports.

Exiles also predicted strikes of the day was a report that Samuel Rodiles, Castro confidant and former G2, or military intelligence chief, had defected. had a lookout order for him but denied persistent exile reports that he had arrived at Key West, Fla., with 10 companions.

Rumors that Menoyo already is in Cuba were denied by his headquarters here.

Menoyo's Plan Omega flag is that of Cuban independence hero Jose Marti, killed in action May 19, 1895.

6 Robins Nest On Tow Truck, Until Solos

EAST STROUDSBURG — "That wrecker isn't going to move until those birds learn how to fly... and that's it."

Edgar Panna, pointed to the robin's nest built in the cross-frame of boom on his tow truck.

Nestled comfortably in a neat nest was a robin with six young robins.

As Panna pointed to the "homesteaders" he beamed with pride.

"Yep. Those birds can stay there just as long as they wish. When they learn how to fly, I'll put that wrecker back in service, he said. He owns another wrecker.

Panna and his friends are afraid if the nest is moved, the mother robin will fly away abandoning the young birds.

And it's a good bet no one at Vet's Garage in East Stroudsburg, will be able to teach the birds to fly.

Ivy League School Aids Negro College

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Brown University is about to play a "Big Brother" role to tiny Tougaloo College, just outside Jackson, Miss.

In a joint announcement Sunday, the Ivy League school and the predominantly Negro college disclosed a program to improve education at Tougaloo.

Most of Tougaloo's 520 students are Negroes. The college has a few white students, and about half of the faculty members are white. Brown has an enrollment of about 4,400.

Dr. Barnaby C. Keeney, Brown president, and A. D. Bole, Tougaloo president, said the program is being backed initially by two grants totaling $245,000 from the Fund for the Advancement of Education, an organization established by the Ford Foundation.

NO AUTOMATION—Mother robin, completely oblivious to modern technology built her nest on a tow truck boom.

Blatt Will Protest If Musmanno Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An attorney for Genevieve Blatt, he explained that 100 names of Democratic voters were needed. The law, he added, says they must be filed by Monday.

The petition cites alleged violations of the election code and asks the court to void the nomination of Musmanno should he be declared the winner.

Musmanno, a State Supreme Court justice, held a 147-vote lead over Miss Blatt today, and it seemed likely that court rulings eventually would determine the outcome.

Musmanno's lead was based on returns from all 67 counties.

Meanwhile, Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, said she would challenge any claims in Musmanno's behalf for thousands of votes cast in a blank space under his name on Jamestown machines in Philadelphia during the April 28 primary.

The Philadelphia Democratic organization reportedly still was undecided on what course to take in efforts to have the blank space votes counted. It was said to be considering appeals, first to the Board of Elections, then to the courts.

The Philadelphia Elections Board, meanwhile, awaited word from the State Supreme Court on action concerning challenged absentee ballots.

The high court held up the count of challenged absentee ballots in Philadelphia on Thursday on a petition filed by the Blatt forces.

Utah Teachers Plan Boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Utah teachers decide to boycott their classrooms next fall—and it's a good bet right now they will—other teacher rebellions may be expected to break out like a rash across the country.

It is a good bet also that the 900,000-member National Education Association will support the Utah teachers with money, manpower, and a request that no member teacher take a job in Utah.

Utah teachers have not yet signed contracts for the 1964-65 school year, although this normally is done much earlier in the year.

They are expected to decide at a mass meeting in Salt Lake City on Tuesday whether to sit the next school year out.

Gov. George D. Clyde continues to refuse their demands for more state aid to education.

A similar walkout was narrowly averted last fall.

After the Tuesday mass meeting, possibly within a day or two, the NEA is expected to decide on its course of action.

Spokesmen indicated Sunday the association will back the Utah teachers to the hilt.

Watching quietly from the sidelines are teachers in such scattered places as Idaho, Louisville, Ky., and Scottsdale, Ariz., where teacher unrest has been simmering for months.

Yank Tells Why He Died In Viet Nam

NEW YORK (AP) — An American Army captain, killed in South Viet Nam a month ago, wrote to his wife, "We must stand strong and give heart to an embattled and confused people. This cannot be done if America loses heart."

Barbara A. Spruill of Suffern, N.Y., widow of Capt. James P. Spruill, made public Sunday portions of his letters to her. In a letter to the editor of the New York Herald Tribune, she expressed the hope "that all Americans would have an opportunity to read them."

Spruill was killed April 21.

"Above all, this is a war of mind and spirit," he wrote. "For us to despair would be a great victory for the enemy."

"At the moment my heart is big enough to sustain those around me. Please don't let them, back where you are, sell me down the river with talk of despair and defeat. There is no backing out of Viet Nam, for it will follow us everywhere we go."

"We have drawn the line here, and the America we all know and love best is not one to back away."

Wallace, Brewster Fight For Maryland Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political interest swings temporarily from the scramble for the Republican presidential nomination to the fortunes of Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama early this week.

But by week's end the emphasis again will be on the selection of delegates for the Republican nominating convention beginning eight weeks from Monday.

Wallace's stand against President Johnson's civil rights program will be rated by Maryland Democrats in a presidential preference primary Tuesday. Standing in for Johnson, who has not entered any primaries, is Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., a supporter of the civil rights bill.

With the Republican organization in Maryland seeking voter approval of an uncommitted slate of delegates, the attention will be on the Democratic primary.

The drive for Republican National Convention delegates resumes Thursday at the Arkansas state convention. Alaska and Illinois Republicans also choose delegates later this week.

Several delegates were elected by convention or primary last week, winding up with the Oregon primary Friday and the GOP convention in Vermont on Saturday.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York won his first contested primary in Oregon and with it his largest batch of delegates, 18.

The New Yorker did well also in Vermont's Republican slate of 12 delegates. All are officially uncommitted but have indicated that they line up 5 for Rockefeller, 3 for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, 1 for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, 1 for Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and 2 uncommitted.

The 18 Oregon delegates are committed to vote for Rockefeller on at least the first ballot at the GOP convention beginning July 13.

An Associated Press survey of the 753 delegates chosen so far—with 655 needed for nomination—shows this first ballot breakdown of pledged, instructed or favorable votes and those uncommitted or unknown:

Goldwater—287
Scranton—66
Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge—43
Rockefeller—28
Richard M. Nixon—7
Mrs. Smith—15
Favorite sons—94
Uncommitted—218
These totals represent only the delegates actually chosen. Goldwater says he is confident he'll go into the convention with more than 500 delegates. Rockefeller is counting nearly all of New York's 92 votes.

State News Roundup

Seranton Team Cool To Rocky

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Seranton-for-president committee reportedly will not team up with any group to back New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in the California primary.

Warren J. Shinsheimer, chairman of the committee, said Saturday he hoped, however, that the outcome of the California voting June 2 "will not foreclose an open national convention."

Rockefeller, winner in Friday's Oregon primary, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona are the only candidates on the Republican presidential preference ballot in California.

Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania has said he is not a candidate for the presidential nomination and would accept it only if he were hotly and sincerely drafted.

Rep. Walter's Request Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just as the late Rep. Francis E. Walter wished, 18-year-old Gordon Smith of Easton, Pa., has been enrolled at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Walter died a year ago. He brought Smith to Washington as a page boy. During his last illness, Walter asked friends to look after the young man's interests. House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., lent a hand, and Smith, who attended a naval prep school here on a scholarship, was notified Friday that he had been accepted as a midshipman in the class enrolling next month.

Lutherans Study Civil Rights

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (UPI) — Detailed plans for the participation of members in all phases of civil rights movement will receive top priority at the four-day meeting of the Lutheran Church's eastern Pennsylvania synod which opens here Monday.

Dr. Samuel E. Kidd, synod president, said integration ranks as "the biggest single problem" in the rural and city congregations which are "facing the most critical period in their history" because of the rights movement.

A keynote speaker will be Negro pastor, Dr. Henry H. Nichols, past president of the Philadelphia Council of Churches and a co-chairman of the mayor's advisory committee on civil rights in Philadelphia.

More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the meeting of the synod, which embraces 165 congregations in 11 counties with 206,500 members.

Industries Up In State

HARRISBURG (AP) — Industrial expansion in Pennsylvania was greater in 1963 than in any year of recent history, Gov. Scranton has reported.

"We are very hopeful that 1964 will be an even better year for Pennsylvania as we realize additional benefits from the legislative and administrative actions taken to improve our overall attraction for business and industry," the governor said in a statement.

"Our efforts for the creation of more job opportunities for our people are proceeding at an accelerated pace," he added.

Scranton said there were 777 new plant operations and expansions announced during 1963. "Over companies with 10 or more employees in 1962; 516 in 1961; 672 in 1960."

Blatt Hits Foe's Claim Of Blank Ballots

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gen. James Blatt in a tight race with Justice Michael A. Musmanno for the Democratic senatorial nomination, says she would challenge any claim in his behalf for thousands of votes cast in a blank space under his name on the April 28 primary election ballots.

The Democratic organization reportedly still was undecided on what course to take in efforts to have the blank space votes counted. It was said to be considering appeals, first to the board of elections, then to the courts.

Meanwhile, attorneys for Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, were reported ready to appeal to the common pleas court in Harrisburg to challenge the nomination should Musmanno be declared the winner.

Musmanno, a state supreme court justice, held a 147-vote lead over Blatt Sunday, and it seemed likely that court rulings eventually would determine the outcome. Musmanno's margin was tabulated from figures which included complete official returns, absentee ballots and all from 62 of the state's 67 counties.

Backers of Musmanno on Saturday were reported to be ready to claim the blank space votes. "So they're thinking they might get some more votes," was Blatt's immediate reaction. "That's very ingenious. I certainly would challenge any votes counted for anyone that were not cast on April 28."

Miss Blatt said she has received several offers from around the state to help finance a court fight, if one should be deemed necessary.

Votes In Error
Democratic party leaders in Philadelphia, Musmanno's chief backers in the primary, insist that many thousands of votes were cast by error in blank spaces on the Jamestown machines. They were used in roughly half of Philadelphia's 60 wards.

The leaders concede that Miss Blatt also lost many votes in the same way, but say that Musmanno undoubtedly lost far more since he led by a margin of over 60,000 votes in Philadelphia.

Miss Blatt's attorneys would not discuss the reported move to appeal to the common pleas court. When asked about this,

Miss Blatt replied: "I couldn't comment. There's no final decision. I hope they're (attorneys) ready with everything needed. My instructions (to the attorneys) were to be prepared for all eventualities."

The Philadelphia Bulletin said, however, it learned that signatures were being collected on petitions that must be filed as part of such an action.

Challenged Votes

Election laws set Monday as the deadline for filing such appeals. This deadline, however, is based upon the primary results being made public that same day. There is no possibility of this being done now, since Democratic absentee ballots cast in Philadelphia, Lackawanna counties are being challenged by Miss Blatt's lawyers.

On the Jamestown machines, the names of rival Democratic candidates were listed horizontally in one row. Voters were supposed to pull the levers di-

The levers could be operated in many polling places, because the special election for congress and for the state legislature were listed on this same row at the far right.

The Philadelphia Democratic organization contends that many persons who wanted to vote for Musmanno became confused and pulled the lever under his name.

Rocky's Oregon Victory Spurred On By Suburbs

By Louis Harris
PORTLAND, Oregon — Governor Nelson Rockefeller's smashing upset victory in Oregon drives up his stock in the June 2 California primary.

Before Oregon, Rockefeller was running behind Sen. Barry Goldwater in California, 45 per cent to 55 per cent.

The question is whether the last two weeks of California will see a Rockefeller surge comparable to the last two weeks in Oregon.

In Oregon, Rockefeller's victory was fashioned essentially from a revolt parked among business and professional executives who wanted their party to have a moderate alternate to Goldwater.

The revolt spread from the suburbs to the cities, and the vote switched from an absent Henry Cabot Lodge to an active-on-the-scene Rockefeller.

A breakdown of the Rockefeller vote shows that he ran strongest in the suburbs of Oregon last Friday.

The New York governor received 33 per cent of the vote in the Oregon primary. He received 33 per cent from the suburbs; 37 per cent from the cities; 35 per cent from the towns and 27 per cent from the rural districts.

The movement toward Rockefeller was first spotted in the polling a week before the election and was located primarily in the suburbs. It was made up first chiefly of business executives and professional people who felt the GOP needed an active, vigorous alternate to Sen. Goldwater.

Reports Goldwater could win the GOP nomination were he to take the California primary, were widely talked about.

Rockefeller also communicated with voters here that he cared and really wanted their vote.

He ran as an underdog. By contrast, voters felt no urgency to vote for Henry Cabot Lodge.

He was criticized for not coming home to campaign. The number who called Lodge a "lazy campaigner" tripled in the last three weeks.

A majority of 68 per cent of these Republicans were critical of Viet Nam and attributed responsibility for it to Lodge.

The ambassador appeared to be more appealing as a residual candidate in New Hampshire, the man few objected to rather than as the serious front runner in Oregon.

In California Rockefeller starts out strongest in the cities, among professional people and small businessmen.

Before Oregon, the New Yorker was the first choice of no more than one in ten Republicans in California.

But he was the second choice of another one in four.

The real battle in the June 2 primary will center on the suburbs, making up fully 43 per cent of the vote.

Goldwater begins with a 57-43 per cent lead in the suburbs of California. In Oregon, just such suburban voters responded most to Rockefeller's campaign.

In California Rockefeller will need to repeat the pattern to win.

There is no doubt now that 1964 is the year of the most independent voter behavior in a long time. Primaries can be subject to the vagaries of widespread last minute shifts. Both Oregon and New Hampshire dramatically illustrate this fact.

There are no party lines in primaries to cut down rapid switch-hits.

As a consequence, polling primaries is hazardous.

The Harris survey caught some of the shifts to Rockefeller at the end but not nearly the magnitude nor scope that it finally took.

Barrett Board Urges Sign Cleanup

CANADENSIS — "Clean Up Week" in Barrett Township was labeled a success by the board of supervisors last week.

Roger Lindsey, chairman, said signs in the area no longer in use had been removed and all others had been painted or repaired.

A list of five signs still needing attention was reported by Stanley Bender.

He said the owners of the signs would be notified as to their condition and be requested to rectify them.

Included on the list were The Old Barn sign, Skytop Road, Herman Burgdorf, owner; fudge sign, Mountainhome; Dan's Food Market Sign, Canadensis Hill, Russell Dan, owner; Buck Hill Falls sign, Playhouse Rd., and Canadensis town sign, Canadensis Hill, Pocono Vacationland Assn., owner.

Intersections where no sign designates the street names are to be posted. A survey of names for this purpose will be made.

In other action, the board received a refund from Daniels Insurance Agency of $74.66 in changed coverage on the fire trucks.

Agreed to sign a release of the Aero-Mod Inc., operator of the Mount Pocono Airport Authority, on condition that all other municipalities signed the release.

Reappointed E. K. Crothers to the Barrett Township Recreation Board for a term of five years.

Received a petition, drawn by Elmer D. Christine, township solicitor, concerning the roadway in the Charles Vogt, Sr., tract, Mountainhome, requesting that the township take over the road. The petition will be circulated.

Second Police Officer

Hired Daniel Van Why of Mountainhome as a second police officer to begin next week following swearing-in ceremonies. The police service, on a 24-hour call duty is contacted through the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg Control Center.

Van Why will be patrolman under Chief Harry Campbell. He will handle the daytime shift. The additional police service was written into the 1964 budget.

During road inspection, the supervisors agreed to tar and chip Long Road and complete work on Lake Road. L. M. Caruthers, secretary, is to contact Bell Telephone Company to have several telephone poles removed from the right-of-way.

During the month, a bomb scare was reported. Investigation at the home of Mrs. Francis Jergens revealed the call to be a hoax.

Three petitions, oral and written, were submitted to the board.

Lloyd LaBar, builder, requested approval of lots in Oak Lyn Park. The board accepted the plan, pending the confirmation that the plan had been filed before adoption of the ordinance subdivision in July, 1962.

The second petition, in a letter from the Pocono Vacationland Assn., requested that the board pass an ordinance "forcing garages, and auto repair shops be kept clean at all times, or be required to build a fence around the property."

Junk Yard Protest

A second petition submitted by James Riley of Mountainhome, was accompanied by pictures of his home and the adjacent auto junkyard owned by Paul E. Nauman.

Nauman's property is on the corner of Route 300 and Sunset Lane. Riley's home is the first house on Sunset Lane.

The supervisors told Riley they were working on a zoning ordinance. Which Lindsey said, "will eliminate new problems."

He Cared Enough

New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller's upset victory in the Oregon Republican Presidential primary election is a healthy political event.

It indicates first that the Republican non-candidates may not have such an easy time winning the Presidential nomination.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, heavy favorite to win the Oregon primary, was upset by Rockefeller, who campaigned hard in the state and spent about $1 million. Lodge, of course, stayed silent behind his non-political diplomatic shield in Saigon.

Rockefeller's slogan was that "he cared enough to campaign in Oregon."

The Oregon results are a victory for open discussion of major political issues over the mysterious popularity of a silent candidate whose views are largely unknown to the American public.

With Lodge in the silent candidate field are Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton and Michigan Governor George Romney. Former Vice President Richard Nixon is a non-candidate, but he has been speaking up more and more.

The Oregon primary is also a healthy victory for the free choice of thinking voters over the dictates of the political pollsters.

As Oregon's Republican Governor Mark O. Hatfield said, "Many people have been relying on polls as a substitute for careful analysis of the merits of the candidates and issues."

Almost all the pollsters have found Lodge first in the hearts of Republican voters since his surprise primary victory in New Hampshire. His subsequent nationwide popularity and strength in Oregon led almost all the pollsters to pick Lodge as the winner in Oregon.

They were wrong, including our own Louis Harris, who said Lodge appeared assured of victory. It was good to see that at least Oregon Republicans have not surrendered their political decision-making to the opinion polls.

Too many Americans already receive their political opinions from family, friends, employers, class or society. We don't need to add political polls to the long list of sources of pre-cooked political opinion.

Finally, Rockefeller showed that hard campaigning and face to face argument with voters is still the best way for a politician to prove himself to the people.

Lodge did not campaign. Neither did Nixon, nor Scranton, nor Romney, nor Margaret Chase Smith. Goldwater did for a few days, then gave up Oregon as a lost cause and went to work on the more important California primary June 2.

Nevertheless, Goldwater is still the front-running Republican. He has more than 300 first-ballot convention votes. Rockefeller has only a handful. His victory in Oregon will help him win the nomination only if it helps him win the California primary.

Egyptian Insult To USA

Nikita Khrushchev was making propaganda hay in Egypt last week during ceremonies at the Aswan Dam project which Russia took over after John Foster Dulles, former U.S. secretary of state, denied American aid.

The Russians have spent $100 million and have sent hundreds of technicians to direct thousands of Egyptian workers building the high dam which will increase Egypt's arable land, help to control the Nile, and provide power for industry.

Egyptians consider it the key to their agricultural and industrial development, and some American diplomats still think Dulles was wrong. That debate will never be settled.

But last week Egyptian President

Gamal Abdel Nasser was making the most of "capitalist exploitation" and Western errors.

While Khrushchev was releasing peace doves and blasts at the United States, Nasser was throwing Nile River mud at the United States.

It was a disgusting show of ingratitude from a man who has received millions of dollars of foreign aid from the United States, millions of dollars of surplus food, and was directly helped by United States refusal to support the British invasion at the Suez Canal.

We do not ask for gratitude or even thanks in return for foreign aid. But there is no reason for the United States to continue helping a nation which spits in our face.

Comment Of The Day

"I never thought Rockefeller would do a thing like this. This really is a stop Goldwater movement."

Picturephone Fears

WASHINGTON — The thing many Washingtonians have been secretly dreading is about to come to pass. The Bell System is inaugurating Picturephone service between Washington, New York, and Chicago next month.

Why couldn't the phone company have picked on three other cities for see-while-you-talk telephoning. Who in Washington wants people in New York and Chicago to see what he's doing? It could be the beginning of the end for hit-their-invisible-influence peddlers, known euphemistically hereabouts as "Washington representatives."

Their whole stock-in-trade has been to work unseen, especially by the suckers who retain them.

The phone company calls the seeing eye device "The Telephone of Tomorrow." It threatens to make life extremely complicated for many of our townfolk who weren't born yesterday.

For a time, at least, Picturephone service will be only person-to-person. The phone company apparently can't bear the thought of a subscriber calling station-to-station, and opening the conversation with:

"Hello, Station, you look just great!"

In addition to subjecting our public lives to overexposure, picture phoning threatens to play havoc with our private existence. It's going to make it very difficult to lie to the little woman when she's staring you straight in the kitchen.

An ancient Chinese proverb says, "True picture is worth more than ten thousand words." If the dear helpmate hears you trying to give her the old malarky by picture, you're going to get the 10,000 words, too.

Morover, you can't get a night out by getting the missus to stay home and watch a television show you taped four months ago. See-while-you-talk telephoning can't be talked. It's got to be live — even if you're picturephoning from a place you've assured the beloved one you wouldn't be caught dead in.

Life will lose much of its luster in many of our bureaucratic offices. Blonde secretaries, chosen for singular efficiency, will stop singing while they work. A lovely amanuensis would risk the danger of being misunderstood if she were telephoned crooning to her boss, "Just picture me, upon your knee..."

What look-phoning will do to politics and politicians could be even worse. Now a busy Senator can't say to his administrative assistant, "Call up this guy, and pretend you're me."

Conversely, a lobbyist won't be able to long-distance one of his clients and say, "I'll put the Senator on the phone"; then put on the bartender.

Luckily it won't make much difference to President Johnson. He hardly makes a phone call without the television cameras now.

But it's going to queer the pitch of members of Congress who have calls for them to their offices transferred to them home in bed. They can't very well tell a constituent they're on Capital Hill working hard, when the caller can see they're either in the sack or posing for a mattress commercial.

It's going to take all the fun out of life for telephonic jokesters. What is to become of the innocent prankster if he can no longer call friends anonymously at 3 in the morning, and quip:

"This is Secretary Celebrezze. How's your head? Education, and vociferous?"

Life too will be as ashes to God dolls who can over the phone, "Guess who's calling?" and when you ask "Who?" say "It's me!"

The Pennsylvania Story

Barren Susquehanna

EDITOR'S NOTE: "Project 70," the ambitious $70,000,000 land reclamation and development project currently is going through the legislative mill — but the question might well be asked: "What good is a river without fish?" The problem in this respect facing communities along the 670-mile course of the Susquehanna River is typical of most areas throughout the State. One who has "lived" with the problem is Basse A. Beck, General Manager of the Sunbury Daily Item, and Chairman of the Committee on Fisheries of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Pennsylvania. In this two-part series Mr. Beck strikes at the heart of the problem — with emphasis. (Mason Denison)

By Basse A. Beck
General Manager
Sunbury Daily Item
(Part I)

HARRISBURG — Let's get down to basics. The reason the Susquehanna River is unattractive to tourists, natives, fishing license buyers and duck hunters alike, is because it is barren. It is barren in its lower reaches because the power dams, lacking fishways, have blocked off the natural passage of migratory fish from Chesapeake Bay. It is barren in its upper tributaries because of mine acid pollution.

Although there remain many miles of this 672 mile river teeming to aquatic life, the disruption of the natural upstream run of food fish from Chesapeake Bay leaves little food for resident fish to live on. Therefore they are scarce and often stunted.

The decline of coal mining in recent years along with a change of methods in anthracite operations whereby the coal companies retain smaller sizes such as rice, barley and buckwheat coal which were mostly discharged into the river or its branches years ago, has gradually improved the water entering the Susquehanna River.

Let me make myself clear. I am not opposed to picnic grounds, parks, access roads or impoundment dams but I view them as fringe benefits view them as the real problem of getting some life in the river. I doubt tourists will ever patronize a barren stream nor do our own residents enjoy it in full measure.

In our own plant I have evidence to prove this point. Every weekend, in fishing season, automobile loads of Sunbury people including some of our printers drive down below Conowingo Dam to fish. They buy licenses in Maryland. Meanwhile, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission is losing license sales every year.

The numbers of Central Pennsylvania sportsmen driving into Maryland to fish are not few. It almost amounts to an invasion. Let me quote some figures from the Susquehanna Fishery Study released in 1961. This study, financed by the power companies, took three years to make and cost $115,000. The report plainly states and I quote: "Eighty per cent of the fishermen interviewed in the tidal areas of the river were from Pennsylvania." And "Thirty to forty per cent of the fishermen at the tall race of the Conowingo Dam were from Pennsylvania." It is obvious fishing parties go where they can get action.

This study also lists 45 different species of fish observed below the power dam and most of these would travel up river if fishways, ladders or canal by-passes were provided. The Susquehanna Fisheries Study also points out there are five fish ladders now operating in the United States that successfully pass shad and other fish.

The Pennsylvania Fish Commission has the authority under the law to make all dam owners provide fishways when they have been found practicable. Although numerous studies of fish habits had been made from time to time in past years, no engineering study of the practicality of fishways had been made since canal days. However, on July 28, 1958, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission voted unanimously to institute an engineering survey.

The Pennsylvania Fish Commission employed the nationally recognized team of engineering-biologists Harlan B. Holmer and Milo C. Bell to survey the feasibility of fishway installations in the four dams of the Lower Susquehanna. This survey complete with plans and specifications for fish ladders for the four dams was completed January 1, 1963. The engineers assert fishways as now being constructed, are feasible.

The Allen-Scott Report

Embassy Bugged

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — State Department security officers have uncovered more than 15 hidden microphones in the U. S. embassy in Moscow.

These highly sensitive listening devices, with ranges up to 50 miles, were found in every room in the building except one — a specially constructed room within a room where U. S. diplomats now hold their private conferences so as not to be overheard by the Russian secret police.

Many of the secret microphones, due to their rusty condition, are believed to have been recording the private conversations of U. S. officials for as long as 10 or 12 years.

That's the jolting report Ambassador Foy D. Kohler made to Secretary of State Rusk during his recent round of consultations at the State Department.

His suppressed findings have been turned over to a House Appropriations Subcommittee, which is now investigating to determine what steps can be taken to improve security at the U. S. embassy.

Paul Scott

Ambassador Kohler reported that U. S. security officers are literally taking the walls apart inch by inch, checking for other listening devices still hidden in the building.

He stressed that if more recording instruments show up in the walls, it will be necessary to take the ceilings and floors apart to make certain the Kremlin isn't still wired to the embassy.

"The KGB (Soviet secret police) installed listening devices in every room in the embassy, including all the rest rooms," reported Kohler. "The microphones were found in the plumbing and in inner walls within the regular walls as well as the light fixtures."

Surprising The Story — While the Russian government knows the full details of the successful U. S. detective work in the embassy, this latest news of the KGB's espionage operations is being kept from the American people on the ground that publication might upset the U. S.-Soviet detente.

In private discussions with the legislators, Ambassador Kohler pointed out this was the reason the decision to keep the whole sordid affair secret was made at the highest government level.

Still at issue is whether the U. S. or the Russians are going to pay for repairing the walls that U. S. security officers are ripping out of the embassy in their continuing hunt for more recording devices.

Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., chairman, suggested that Ambassador Kohler threaten to publicly expose the Soviet spying unless the Kremlin foots the repair bill.

Other subcommittee members have proposed that the State Department demand that the U. S. be permitted to build a completely new embassy and ambassador's residence in Moscow, using U. S. workers and material to prevent further "bugging" with KGB listening devices.

Ambassador Kohler also indicated in his report that the Russians are refusing to repair the present embassy's roof, rain gutters and stairs, which are deteriorating so rapidly many of the steps are considered dangerous.

Plugging The Leaks — The discovery of the hidden microphones has saved the State Department from a major security blunder.

On learning of the widespread Soviet penetration of the embassy, Secretary Rusk rejected a precedent-setting recommendation by Administrator Abba P. Schwartz, of the Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs, to hold a meeting of U. S. consular officials in the Moscow embassy.

Despite vigorous objections by the department's top security officers, Schwartz had proposed that the next meeting of U. S. consular officers stationed in Europe and Iron Curtain countries be held in the Soviet capital.

Since the U. S. embassy's room within a room isn't large enough to hold all these officials, they would have had to use one of the larger rooms — which the KGB had "bugged." Some of the most sensitive U. S. secrets would have been recorded for the Kremlin if Schwartz had gotten his way and the hidden microphones had not been discovered.

Dear Abby

Outraged

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: When I read all those letters from readers stating that you were wrong to say that the bus driver should have stopped and tried to help the dog he hit, I couldn't believe my eyes. Then we find out there is a LAW in Indiana which prohibits a school bus driver from stopping on the highway even if he hits an animal. What if he hits a child? He would have to stop then, wouldn't he? Or would he just go right on, and report the incident only after having delivered his bus load of children to their destinations? No wonder there is so much inhumanity today! I don't care what the LAW says, Abby, don't you back down one inch. You were right, and the whole State of Indiana is wrong to let a law like that stay on its books.

NOT FROM INDIANA

DEAR ABBY: I have never before written to a newspaper columnist, but I cannot sleep unless I write this letter. How could anyone answer to his own conscience if he hits a poor defenseless dog and doesn't stop to see if the dog is dead or alive, or to give him some aid? An injured dog on the highway would surely be struck again and again by oncoming vehicles if not removed. Dogs feel pain just as humans do. If this is the law, perhaps we can look forward to future laws which will not only disregard the feelings of animals, but people. Phooey on progress!

DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE

DEAR ABBY: I checked and you were right. It is against the law in Indiana for a school bus driver to stop on the highway if he hits an animal. The laws of various states are often confusing. For example, I was driving through a section posted "RANGE AREA — WATCH FOR LIVESTOCK" and a cow wandered out in front of me. I hit her broadside. My car was badly damaged and I was lucky I wasn't killed. I saw a lawyer, expecting to recover damages for my car. After all, I was on the highway where I was supposed to be, and the cow had no business there. I found out that I not only couldn't collect a dime, but I was being sued by the farmer for the loss of his cow.

CLAUDE IN WENATCHEE, WASHINGTON

DEAR ABBY: It's hard to believe that there are people in the world as cruel and cold-blooded as those who wrote to say that the bus driver should not have stopped, but gone right on after having hit a dog. What harm could come to the children if he pulled off the highway onto the shoulder of the road? I am sure if he put several of the older children in charge of the younger ones and told them all to stay inside the bus, not one of them would have disobeyed. Children have a greater compassion and love for animals than most adults.

GRANDMOTHER OF NINE

DEAR ABBY: To the person who said it was "dangerous" to stop and give aid to an injured animal, may I say that I once carried a dog, whose back had been broken, from the middle of the road, while others stood on the sidelines and did nothing? The injured dog licked my hand in gratitude, and the expression in his eyes will remain with me until I die.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Clean Wounds Heal Quickly

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
When your child cuts himself, almost instantaneously the body mechanism goes into action to heal that wound.

Even before the bleeding is controlled or the pain subsides, intricate and complex healing processes are activated.

After a flesh wound, the first stage of healing is characterized by redness and swelling, with a deposit of a fine blood clot at the site of the injury.

The redness indicates that oxygen, nutrients, antibodies and fighting blood cells have concentrated their defenses where they are needed most. A specialized white blood cell is also rushed to the scene to build up barriers against infection.

Swelling Recedes
The next stage shows a drying of the scab, and receding of the swelling. "Proud flesh," or granulation tissue, begins to form and the tiny cells of the skin regenerate and fuse to close the wound. The scab acts as a protective covering while all this unseen activity is going on beneath.

Of course, this rapid healing process can be hindered if infection sets in. Almost always a break in the skin admits some kind of bacteria with a potential for causing infection.

Immediate Cleansing
That is why immediate cleansing of a wound is most important, even if it appears to be trivial. For when a wound is contaminated, the time it takes to heal is increased and if there is a scar, it will be more noticeable.

Simple cuts and open bruises should be gently cleaned with soap and water. After rinsing off the soap with clear water, a mild antiseptic may be used, but do not use iodine. Foreign substances such as paint or rust should be removed, of course. The wound should then be covered with a clean gauze bandage.

Further Interference
Thick ointments should be avoided unless specifically recommended by a physician. If antibiotic lotions and ointments are indiscriminately applied, there can be further interference with the delicate healing mechanism.

"Scraped" knees should be washed but not bandaged. The wound seems to heal more quickly this way.

Generally, the most effective way of stopping bleeding is to apply pressure at the site of the wound. If a clean gauze pad is available, place it on the wound and press firmly, without easing the pressure, for at least three minutes.

Seen By A Doctor
Any severe cut or injury, or profuse bleeding should be seen by a doctor.

But no wound is so trivial that it can be casually neglected. Even small wounds can become infected and can be an unnecessary source of incapacitation.

Simple, intelligent care helps nature perform the marvel of healing.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Disturbing U.S. Scene

(SECOND IN SERIES)

And so I look upon our own country and much that I see disturbs me. But we are a great people. We have a noble tradition. We have much to teach the world, and if America should go down soon it would be too early.

One thing is certain. We shall be given no centuries for a leisurely and comfortable decay. We have an enemy now — remorseless, crude, brutal and cocky.

However much the leaders of the Communist conspiracy may lie to their subjects about our motives, about our conditions of prosperity, about our policies and aims, one thing they believe themselves implicitly — and that is that we are in an advanced state of moral decline.

When Nikita Khrushchev visited Hollywood he was shown only one movie set, that of a wild dance scene in Can-Can. He said it represented decadence and I am sure he really thought so. It is a donna of current Communist faith that America is Sodom and Gomorrah, ripe for the kill.

Do you know what scares me about the Communists? It is not their political system, which is primitive and savage, and often stunted.

The naive questions of your Intourist reveal only too quickly that she thinks she is talking to a self-indulgent top from the court of some latter-day Louis XIV.

In the schoolyard the children rush up to show you, not their joys, but their scholarship medals.

And when you offer them new Lincoln pennies as souvenirs they rip off their little Young Pioneer buttons and hand them to you, proud that they are not taking gifts, but are making a fair exchange.

The Russian stage is as austere as the Victorian stage. Russian literature may be corny but it is clean, and it glorifies the Russian people and exudes optimism and promise. Russian art is stiffly representative, but the paintings and the sculpture strive to depict beauty and heroism — Russian beauty, of course, and Russian heroism.

And what of us? We are now at the end of the third decade of the national insanity known as "progressive education."

This was the education where everybody passes, where the report cards were non-committal lest the failure be faced with the fact of his failure, where all moved at a snail pace like a transatlantic convey so that the slowest need not be left behind, and all proceeded toward adulthood in the lockstep of "togetherness."

Thus the competition that breeds excellence was to be sacrificed for the benefit of something called "life adjustment."

With what results? We have watched juvenile delinquency climb steadily. We have produced tens of thousands of high school graduates who move their lips as they read and cannot write a coherent paragraph.

Former Tobyhanna Deputy Named Workshop Director

STROUDSBURG — George G. Kahl, former deputy commanding officer at the Tobyhanna Army Depot, has been named executive director of the Burnley Sheltered Workshop in East Stroudsburg.

Kahl, who retired from the Army after 22 years service, will begin his new duties today. He lives in Tobyhanna.

Dr. James Reed, president of the workshop board of directors, said Kahl was chosen over eight other candidates for the $6,500 a year post.

Reed also disclosed that Mrs. Paul Kroyer of Villanova has been hired as a secretary. He said Mrs. Kroyer has a college degree in sociology. She will be paid $3,000 a year.

The last member of the three-man team—a supervisor—has been tentatively chosen but not named yet, according to Dr. Reed.

The workshop is the first countywide effort to establish an intensive program for training of the mentally and physically handicapped.

Trained For Jobs
Handicapped persons will be trained to do useful work under controlled conditions.

Kahl said he will start work at the workshop today. He said for the first month he will concentrate on becoming familiar with the operations of the job.

George G. Kahl

He said he will spend time in the workshops headquarters to determine what equipment will be needed to start training the handicapped for useful jobs.

"I will also visit workshops in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Allentown and possibly Reading and try and take the best features of each one to use in our workshop," Kahl said.

The former Army officer said he is anxious to embark on a new career. He said he accepted the appointment because "I felt I had one career and that this job would be rewarding in this part of my life."

He said working with the handicapped will give him an opportunity to "become a real part of the community."

Kahl said one of his first jobs will be to review mentally and physically handicapped people in the county to determine what each is capable of doing.

Private Gifts
The workshop is being financed in a large part—by private contributions. The state has approved the program and will supply annual allocations for its maintenance. The state has allocated $2,000 so far.

The Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce has committed itself to raising $50,000 needed to equip the workshop and get the program off the ground.

Raymond Roberts, a member of the Jaycee workshop committee, said last night $19,000 has been pledged to the program to date.

He said in about two weeks the Jaycees will start selling $100 shares in the workshop. Roberts said he is optimistic about the fund raising and thought the $50,000 will be committed in the near future.

Gypsy Moth Spraying To Start

STROUDSBURG — Airplane spraying of sevin to control gypsy moths, leaf-eating forest pests, will begin in Monroe and Northampton Counties Tuesday at daybreak, weather permitting, according to Arthur Jeffries, of the State Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 6,000 acres in Northampton County will be sprayed and a 1,000 acres in Northampton County will be sprayed and a 1,000 acres in Monroe. If the weather conditions are favorable the spray plane can complete the job in two or three days.

Jeffries explained that the spray schedule is only tentative. To insure precise placement of the insecticide, planes fly only on days when there is little or no breeze.

Wind velocity is usually low between 6 to 9 a.m. and, in general, spraying will be limited to those hours.

The World War I Stearman biplanes, under contract from Chris Stoltz of Coatsville, will leave the Blairstown, N.J., airport 10 miles east of Delaware Water Gap.

Stadium Study Supported But Need For It Debated

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County school directors, administrators, and athletic coaches are in general agreement that the possibility of a county athletic stadium should be studied, but are divided in their opinion on the need for such a facility.

The project has been proposed by the Pocono Mountain Junior Chamber of Commerce — which last night named a 12-man coordinating committee to study the proposal.

The most favorable comment came from Pocono Mountain Joint School District which last Wednesday voted to delay construction of a $17,000 stadium at the high school in Swiftwater.

Stroud Union Divided
Officials from the Stroud Union School District are divided on the feasibility and need for a county wide stadium. Stroud Union is scheduled to meet Wednesday to award construction bids that will include a stadium costing approximately $170,000.

Representatives from East Stroudsburg Area High School, Pleasant Valley Joint Schools and East Stroudsburg State College endorsed a study of the stadium, but presented a number of questions that would have to be answered in the study.

Robert Borowski, chairman of the Jaycee committee setup to study the project, named the following men to serve on a fact-finding committee:

Jaycee Committee
Dr. Edmund Magann, Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee president; Joseph Murray, Pocono Mountain director of athletics; Harry Drennan, a former county school board director; Robert Hellmann, Raymond Roberts and Dr. John Linn, all Stroud Union school directors.

Also Jerry Stulgaitis, former Stroud Union football coach; Dr. Evan Reese, East Stroudsburg Area school director; Jack Kist, East Stroudsburg Area athletic director; John Mills, Pleasant Valley supervising principal; Wayne Hulsizer, Pleasant Valley football coach.

Taxpayers Money
—Roberts said, "Any proposal dealing with the expenditure of even a dollar of taxpayers money warrants study before the expenditure is made."

"It seems that one well-constructed stadium to be used by all schools would be better than four lesser facilities built at a greater expenditure of tax money."

—Dr. Reese said, "Any proposal dealing with the expenditure of even a dollar of taxpayers money warrants study before the expenditure is made."

Various members of the committee gave the following comments last night:

—Dr. Magann said, "The idea should be investigated thoroughly. At the present time we haven't gone any further on our own stadium and this is one of the reasons we haven't gone further."

"However, everything is dependent on Stroud Union's ability to abandon part of its program. You have to look at this thing from the long range view. A stadium of this type could eventually be used for many other things."

—Murray said, "With our facility in its present status think the idea should be investigated. If everybody went together we would have a better facility. I think something like this is needed and if four districts pay for it the taxpayer would save money."

—Dr. Linn said, "Stroud Union's plans for an athletic stadium were based on the school district's needs, the desires of the people and the ability to finance the project in the current bond issue."

"The stadium will seat more than 4,500, with adequate parking facilities. If the growth of the community warranted a larger stadium, it would only need additional seats as the parking and all other facilities would be adequate."

"A county stadium for use by the various schools and ESSC for major games and the county for use of any major event requiring 10-15,000 spectators is desirable and worthy of consideration and study."

"However, Stroud Union would not be able to divert any of the budgeted funds toward a county stadium. Our bond issue has been presented and approved and we refinanced all authorized obligations into one issue."

"Any major change at this time would be impossible without stopping the whole building program and would be very costly."

—Hellmann said, "If this thing had any possibility, it should have been approached some time ago. But to have a study in 1964 of a project to be built in 10 years is not realistic."

—Stulgaitis said, "I would be in favor of such a study. This is not a unique idea. I can name you 10 communities that have done this. The only weakness is when you get four teams wanting to play at the same time."

"If they ever went along with a one county unit instead of a four district arrangement, there would be no argument against it. However, if Stroud Union goes ahead with its plans to build a stadium, the thing would be a dead issue."

"Actually if this proposed Pocono Art Center had been tied in with this it would have been a good project. You will find co-operation on this easier than in other school areas. As far as justifying a four-district plan this might be the smartest move we could make."

"I think the study should include cost and the methods available to finance the project. It must be a legitimate study ending with a yes or no answer."

"To begin with it has financial advantages. It would be an advantage to the county as a whole and especially to the resort industry for special events. It's foolish to build these things at high schools for 15 or 20 days a year."

PORTLAND — Police investigated two automobile accidents in Portland over the weekend. Jesse Felker, police chief, said an accident early Saturday morning resulted in the injury of 21-year-old Craig Bellis of East Bangor.

The accident took place on Rt. 611, between Portland and Mt. Bethel, when Bellis lost control and his car overturned. He was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County suffering from injuries to both knees and his right elbow. Felker said the car was demolished.

In the other mishap, Donald Reeder of Belvidere, N. J., backed into a car owned by George Zigafuse of Portland. Felker said the accident took place Sunday at 3:15 a.m. and resulted in $8,000 damages.

No arrests were made in either accident.

Canadensis Accident

CANADENSIS — Pamela Jane Prett, 19, of Canadensis was released from the General Hospital of Monroe County Sunday. She was admitted Saturday night with injuries received in an automobile accident.

The accident occurred Saturday at 9:35 p.m. on Dutch Hill Rd., according to Harry Campbell, Barrett Twp. chief of police.

Chief Campbell identified the driver of the vehicle as Richard Lawrence Prett, 23, of Canadensis. Miss Prett, his sister, was a passenger in the car.

Also in the car was Jane E. Behn of Newfoundland.

Prett was traveling north and failed to negotiate a right turn. The vehicle crossed the highway and hit a tree, said Chief Campbell.

Damage to the Prett vehicle is estimated at $1,400, police said.

Sears Sponsors Thompson In 500 Mile Auto Race

REPORTED TO BE THE FIRST FULLY STREAMLINED CARS ever entered in the Indianapolis "500," car-builder and racing driver Mickey Thompson (left) and his crew chief, Paul Nicoline, check the steering on one of three Sears-Allstate Specials that Thompson has entered in the May 30 race. This car, which will be driven by Dave MacDonald of El Monte, Calif., is powered by a Ford four-cylinder racing engine and will run on newly developed Allstate racing tires. Visit Sears on Main St., Stroudsburg, TODAY!

Memorial Day 500 Classic Is Test Ground For Cars

STROUDSBURG — Sears, Roebuck and Co. is starting at the top in its first endeavor in the field of auto racing. The world-renowned 500 mile Memorial Day Classic at Indianapolis with three low-slung, rear-engine cars built by Mickey Thompson.

Thompson's three entries are similar to the lightweight rear-engine cars he used at the Speedway in 1963 and 1962, but they incorporate a number of significant changes... notably in the tires and engines.

The tires, a product of almost a year of research and testing by the Allstate Tire Division of Sears, are a revolutionary square shoulder, low-profile design. The engines are Ford overhead camshaft racing engines, providing an increase of 75 horsepower over engines Thompson used last year.

Why is Sears entering big-time racing for the first time in the company's history?

T. F. Filline, Jr. and A. P. Buesch, the two men who head the firm's national automotive departments explain it in these words:

"The Indianapolis '500' is one of the most grueling competitions in the world. By sponsoring the three Mickey Thompson cars, we have been able to subject our tires, batteries, shock absorbers and other automotive products to the maximum test for performance and safety.

Our findings, of course, are reflected in improved quality in the merchandise we offer our automotive customers.

"We're pleased that we have an opportunity to work with Mickey Thompson and his skilled crew. Win or lose we have gained tremendous knowledge that has already been put to work bettering our consumer products."

To date, more than 2,000 miles of tests have been run on the new tires, and their performance has convinced Thompson and tire engineer Gene McManis that all records for speed in the turns will fall by race day.

To drive the cars, Thompson has again signed one of Europe's top Grand Prix drivers, Masten Gregory of Paris, France. The second car will be driven by Dave MacDonald of El Monte, Calif., a young driver that many experts feel is the top prospect in America today.

Thompson was so impressed with the way MacDonald handled the cars in tire tests at the Speedway that he has signed him to a two-year contract.

The third driver will be Duane Carter of Indianapolis.

Indiana, veteran of 11 Indy 500's, who drove a Thompson car to 18th place last year. For your automotive needs visit Sears, Main St., Stroudsburg.

ON THE HOUSE
THE PRODUCT — A new exterior latex paint designed to do away with the priming and etching of bare galvanized gutters, downspouts and eaves.
THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That the painting of bare galvanized materials can be completed in one day, since the latex acts as its own primer and can be recoated within an hour; that the new paint acts equally well on aluminum; and that the only preparation necessary is to be certain that any protective layer of oil put on the galvanized steel or aluminum by the manufacturer is thoroughly wiped off.
THE PRODUCT — A man-made material that looks and cuts like wood, but is combustible, does not conduct electricity and is not affected by wood and rot. Production capacity presently limits its use as siding to the southern part of the country, but it soon will be available nationally and later will be made for many other home uses as well as for siding.
THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM — That this material, a combination of processed wood, asbestos fibers and cement, is preshrunk and primed before it leaves the factory, can be painted with latex or oil-based paints, can be nailed with standard siding nails without predrilling holes and will not split because it has no grain or knots.
Everett J. Roberson Jr. posed the question: "I often wonder if a person should come up to a seller and offer to pay the asking price, if he would be informed he is really paying more than what was actually expected?"
R.O. Witte called the asking price system "an evil" and added "like most other business practices, I suppose that the public as a whole prefers it that way."
"But it all seems to work out the same. The seller meets a lot of people, the brokers get to talk plenty, the buyers feel happy with a bargain, and I waste my time watching TV and reading your column."

Your Heart Has 9 Lives

Take careful account of these primary facts:

Coronary heart disease today is our leading killer, and the toll is increasing.

The very FIRST attacks are fatal to almost 40 per cent of victims, either immediately or within six weeks time. Almost 20 per cent die in the FIRST HOUR.

Millions of us live with dangerously high risks.

There is no germ or bug that causes heart attacks.

Its causes involve the way we've been living.

You Should Act Now

Heart disease has risen to tragic prominence at a time when so many Americans are enjoying the "good life" and prosperity. The thought is inescapable that somehow this epidemic is fundamentally due to aspects of our new modern way of life. Some experts call it the "disease of prosperity" and blame it particularly upon the ABUSE of our prosperity.

Our life habits and customs have changed remarkably in the last 40 to 50 years, and we've heartily welcomed most of them. But many of these new habits and boons are associated with our high rate of premature death from heart attacks.

The heart plague flourishes in those countries, like ours, where modern urban industrial life is most developed, where the changes from a rural agricultural society — in habits of eating, exercising, working, smoking, and other ways — have been most profound.

But we can do something about it, a very great deal.

None of these steps can hurt us in any way. Rather, you will very likely feel better, and be healthier. They do not call for the rigors of any spartan existence — far from it.

The time to begin is now.

Never, Never, Never NEVER BEFORE 1050

SANCTUARY DEDICATED — Mrs. Claude Leister points to sign at Pocono Wild Animal Farm which describes the bird sanctuary dedicated to the farm Saturday. It is in memory of her late husband, Claude W. Leister, who began the farm. Looking on are (left to right) Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, ESSC president, and Rev. Peter K. Emmons.

Dr. Emmons Dedicates Sanctuary

Stroudsburg — About 100 community leaders witnessed the opening of the Claude W. Leister Bird Sanctuary Saturday at the Pocono Wild Animal Farm on Foxtown Hill.

The sanctuary was named for the founder of the farm, and contains two to three acres on a minor bird migratory route.

Over 50 different species of birds have been seen at the spot.

Mrs. Leister welcomed the group who saw the opening of the sanctuary named for her late husband, who died in 1963.

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler of East Stroudsburg State College made opening remarks, and Dr. Peter K. Emmons delivered the dedication speech.

Dr. Emmons recapped Leister's life, noting that he was born in 1893, graduated from Perkiomen School and Cornell, where he majored in zoology and ornithology.

"After his 1917 graduation he entered the armed services and suffered a severe gas injury in Europe," Dr. Emmons said.

After the war, Leister joined the faculty of Cornell, where he taught until 1930. He then joined the Bronx Zoo as assistant curator of mammals.

While helping to organize the children's zoo, he got the idea for the wild animal farm, which he opened in 1948. Dr. Emmons hailed Leister as a dedicated scientist, a devoted educator, and a warm-hearted friend to man and animal.

He said, "An institution is the longer shadow of a man, and that's what the sanctuary should be."

New York Protocol Chief Watches Clock To Succeed

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
Normally this column says "Don't watch the clock on your job!"

But today's subject watches the clock all day and succeeds because she does!

Specifically, our subject is Mrs. Emma Alden Rothblatt, Deputy Commissioner of New York City's Department of Commerce and Public Events. And in her job, she's responsible for much of the protocol activity of the nation's largest city.

For example, Mrs. Rothblatt must plan the visits of kings and queens, presidents and other heads of state. She's responsible for ticker tape parades, itineraries for important visitors, receptions, award scrolls, proclamations and New York's famous "Salute to Seasons" program, along with other related functions.

And for her job, she watches the clock, since timing and scheduling are all-important.

"We're always in a state of perpetual emergency," she said when we talked to her while she kept her eye on the clock. "I have my eye on the clock right now," she said, "because Mrs. Robert Kennedy is scheduled to arrive at the airport to be whisked to Grace Mansion for a proclamation. But her plane is late, so I'm wondering where she is and how I'll get her to the proclamation on time."

But seeing that dignitaries get to the right place at the right time is an old story to Mrs. Rothblatt who began her career as a high school teacher. She then switched to a municipal government job after she took a civil service examination and went into police work.

For the first part of her career in government she was assistant to the Director of Policewomen in New York and while in that job, Mrs. Rothblatt — who's married to a lawyer and the mother of a teenage daughter — went to law school at night and got her law degree.

As a result of her years in this department, many events stand out in her mind. But John Glenn's welcome to New York was one of the most hectic days she remembers.

"It was a labor of love," she says. "But the night before we were so busy that we went home only to change our clothes and came right back to be ready for the next day."

Sir Edmund Hillary's visit to New York after he conquered Mt. Everest is another event that stands out in her mind.

"Because the usual tight schedule was even tighter," said Mrs. Rothblatt, some of my staff and I offered to go up to Sir Edmund's hotel after the official ceremony to help him pack so he could make his train on time.

"But while we were all busy packing, he looked out of a window and caught his breath when he saw some window cleaners blithely at work high above the streets.

"And I'll never forget his remark," she added. "They have dangerous jobs!" he said.

Mrs. Ruth Ebling Geniesse (Arnold Photo)

Ruth Amelia Ebling Weds J.H. Geniesse At Buck Hill

Buck Hill Falls — Miss Ruth Amelia Ebling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nelson Ebling of Buck Hill Falls, and Sara Sota, Fla., was married on May 16, to Jean Huber Geniesse, son of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Geniesse of Linnebeck, Pa., at the home of her parents at the Buck Hill Falls.

Rev. Vernon M. Murray Jr. of the Methodist Church of Candaness performed the double ring ceremony before a fireplace banked with white flowers. The home was decorated with bouquets of yellow and white flowers.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Frederick H. Calkins and Mrs. Fisher, of Langhorne, Manoir.

The bride wore a dress with a lace bodice with square scalloped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The lace motif was repeated in appliques on the ballerina length skirt of organza. A single cuff gown's crown of organza trimmed with pearls held a brief veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants wore street-length sheaths of shantung with lace collars and cap sleeves. The bridesmaids wore a pink tulle-textured tulle suit with a shirred bodice and draped skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of apricot embroidered linen.

The ceremony was attended by 50 close friends and relatives who remained for the reception following the ceremony in the home.

Leaving for their wedding trip, the bride wore a pink tulle-textured tulle suit with a shirred bodice and draped skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of apricot embroidered linen.

A graduate of The Grady School in Tyrone, and Centenary College for Women, Hackettstown, the bride until recently was with National Airlines as a stewardess.

Mr. Geniesse, a graduate of the University of Michigan, is a development engineer with Rohm and Haas, Bristol, Pa. They will reside in Morrisville.

Cy Barrett Says

Selling Handicapped

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.
DEAR CY: Please pass the ammunition to our church group. Have you any information on material which we can use for selling on hiring the handicapped? Particularly amputees.
CHURCH WOMEN

DEAR GIRLS: Shoot holes in employer's excuses with the story of George Barr and his large, little-known company. In 1934, this enterprising man, with a missing leg and a deaf friend, formed G. Barr Company. His outfit is now up to its hips in the business of custom filling aerosol containers (and other types of packages) for cosmetic firms, drug houses and other major advertisers. Packaging hair lacquers, perfumes, colognes, household products, pharmaceuticals is all part of a work-packed day at G. Barr.

The shop, originally started with two handicapped veterans, has grown to where it chalked up volume of 25 million dollars in 1963. AND each of the 1 billion units, packaged by Barr last year, was at some time or other, processed by a handicapped person. Over 50 percent of Barr's 300 employees are handicapped.

Recognized by President Truman for his humanitarian service, George Barr has served as chairman of National Employ the Handicapped Week from 1954 to 1963. He says, "These people are conscientious, efficient workers. We find the added dexterity of amputees has proved a valuable asset." It is estimated the aerosol industry will hit sales of over 2 billion units by 1970. By the end of 1964, aerosol hair sprays alone are expected to account for 250 million. Handicapped persons will play a huge part in the big mist all over America.

DEAR CY: Your column on spare time help services leaves me in a quandary. How can I get work through them? There is no such animal in our town!
OLD THEODORE

DEAR TED: Anyone living in, or near, a community with industry has an opportunity to obtain part-time work through a temporary help service. Do this: Contact an organization of this type in the nearest city of 50,000 population or more.

They will send you an application form which you should fill out and return promptly. When businesses near you request part-time employees from them you may be called. Another way is to follow the same procedure and commute to distant areas for part-time work. How to locate the names and addresses of temporary help services? Write the chambers of commerce in the larger towns.

CY

DEAR CY: Your flock may be interested in how one elderly couple keeps up with living costs on a social security income of a little over $200 per month. Twenty years ago, we bought a very ordinary house with two bedrooms, upstairs and one down. It was on an acre of land on the outskirts of town. We modernized this place and converted the upstairs to a furnished apartment with an outside stairway.

Our net income from the rental is $300 per year, which is $64 more than upkeep, fuel and taxes on our entire home. The city has grown and we are now about to sell off a part of our property, measuring 65 x 190 feet. Should calamity strike, we can sell the houses as income producing property. How's this for looking ahead?
PA FRAIZER

DEAR PA: Unlike you, most people see the future as something which happens a day at a time. In life, real estate and chasing happiness, prophets make profits.

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg A's gained sole possession of first place yesterday in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League, routing Bowmanstown, 17-5, for their fourth straight win of the season.

The victory, coupled by Reiders' 6-5 loss to Saylorburg, broke the two-way tie for first place. Other scores in the league were Kunkletown 5, Bushkill 4; and Stroudsburg Poconos 17, West End 0.

Harold Strunk of the A's was rapped for 10 hits by the Redskins of Bowmanstown, but still coasted to victory on the strength of his team's 18 hits. A's supplied him with a 6-0 lead in the top of the fourth and it was no contest after that.

Erupt For Eight

The A's added another marker in the fifth, two more in the seventh and erupted for eight in the eighth for the clincher.

Strunk led Bowmanstown to a single tally until the bottom of the eighth when the Redskins tagged him for four more markers.

Saylorburg's Lakers sent Reiders into second place by scoring five runs in the top of the eighth to gain a 6-5 squeaker verdict. Reiders led by a 2-1 count until the sudden explosion by the Lakers.

Kunkletown, meanwhile, gained a share of second place with Reiders by nipping Bushkill, 5-4, for its third win in four outings.

Two Homers

A two-run homer by Bushkill's Broder in the fourth inning helped supply a 4-2 lead for his club, but Kunkletown's Delbert Kresge poked a three-run circuit smash in the seventh which proved the deciding margin. The loss was the fourth in a row for Bushkill.

West End absorbed the worst beating of the day and also remained winless as the amazing Poconos registered their second win to reach the 500 mark with a 17-0 pasting over last year's first-place winners.

Warren Place hurled the route for the winners, allowing but four hits while striking out 10 and issuing but one walk.

The bats of the Poconos started to go to work in the fifth and never let up after that while the Gilbert nine booted the ball eight times. The Poconos tallied two in the fifth, six in the sixth, one in the seventh, and four each in the eighth and ninth frames.

Clemens Homers

The Cardinals got three of their hits in the sixth when they scored their two runs. Doug Clemens homered after Bobby Uecker singled. Alou drove in the Braves' last run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Curt Simmons survived a three-run Milwaukee ninth in which he pitched his fifth victory in the opener.

Bill White and Tim Lincecum homered in the Cardinals' three-run second. Clemens' single scored the third run.

Braves' starter Hank Fischer was eluded in the fifth on run-scoring singles by Ken Boyer and Charley James. Dick Groat tripled across Curt Flood and James in the seventh. Flood finished the first game with four hits.

Bayer, Hebert Lead In Open

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — George Bayer and Lionel Hebert, a pair of veterans who haven't won a tournament recently, each fired 68s Sunday and were tied for the lead in the $40,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament at the halfway point with six-under-par 128s.

One stroke behind at 139 were Johnny Pott of Gulf Hills, Miss., and Mike Souchnik of Groesinger, N.Y. Pott shot a 70 Sunday. Souchnik, who shared the lead with five others Saturday at 68, slipped to a 71.

Giants Win Twice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Hendley hurled an impressive three-hit shutout in the opener and Ron Herbel followed with a victory in his first major league start Sunday as the San Francisco Giants rolled to their first doubleheader sweep since 1962 by scores of 6-0 and 1-0 over the New York Mets.

The triumph kept the Giants in the National League lead.

Willie Mays sat out the second game after going hitless in the opener, marking the third time in four games he failed to hit. His average dropped 11 points to .411.

Three homers gave southpaw Hendley plenty of insurance after the Giants scored a run in the second inning on a walk, single, long fly and ground out that scored Orlando Cepeda.

Lonnie Run

Right-handed Herbel was given his run in the second inning of the nightcap. Cepeda singled, stole second, went to third on a deep fly by loser Jack Fisher, an ex-Giant, who gave up only two hits before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Cepeda hit a three-run homer in the third inning of the first game off loser Al Jackson, who allowed four hits in his seven innings of work.

His reliever, Tom Sturdivant, gave up bases-empty home runs in the eighth to Jim Hart and Willie McCovey.

Serious Trouble

Hendley, picked up in a big winter trade with Milwaukee, was in serious trouble only in the eighth when Chris Cannizzaro doubled for the Met's only extra-base hit and put men on second and third with one out.

But Hendley, who surrendered only one walk, got the next two men on a foul pop fly and a ground out. Hendley retired the first 13 men to face him before being touched for a fifth-inning single.

Warriors Edge Kutztown To Complete Season, 7-6

A five-run explosion in the bottom of the fifth inning gave East Stroudsburg State College a 7-6 triumph over visiting Kutztown Saturday for the Warriors fifth win against one defeat in the Pennsylvania State College Baseball Conference.

The victory also allowed ESSC to post a 9-5 record overall, while averaging a previous 11-10 loss to Kutztown.

Tim Wyatt started things off for the winners in their eighth round when he reached first on an outfield error. Dave Rittenhouse singled Wyatt to second and reliever Bob Gelatko bunted safely to load the sacks.

The first run scored on a fielder's choice and another crossed the plate on a delayed double steal with Duane Ely out at second.

Another bunt single by John Ferguson and walks to Jim Reynolds and Paul Grube rebounded the bases. Relief pitcher Bob Mazzerle walked Ed Kroff to force in the tying run and an error by Kutztown shortstop Bob DeLong allowed two more to cross the plate on Bob Hawk's grounder.

Mike Raskiewicz poked a two-run homer for Kutztown in the sixth inning and added run-producing doubles for three hits and four RBIs. DeLong also homered for the visitors.

Lou Pacchioni, who had suffered a torn knee entilage, missed his first game since he was a freshman and finished the season with a .330 batting average. Tom Washburn, also out of the game with a mild concussion, concluded the season with a .380 average including three homers and 15 RBIs.

Jim Rodney of Pen Argyl has capped a brilliant scholastic athletic career with his outstanding performances last Friday in the District 11 track meet in Allentown School District Stadium. The only triple winner of the day, Rodney set two district records by leaping 20 feet, 9 1/2 inches in the broad jump, and traveling through the 160-yard low hurdles in 21.3 seconds. He also captured another Class B title in the javelin with a throw of 155 feet, 10 inches.

Pen Argyl finished third in team competition—and Rodney accounted for 15 of the team's points.

A fine team performance by East Stroudsburg in the Class B competition gave the Cavaliers second place. Dick MacDonald placed first in the 220-yard dash and was a member of the 880-relay team which grabbed another first. Eastburg's Ludgate, who also competed in the 880-relay, finished first in the 440-yard dash. Stroud Union, which failed to gain any first-place finishes in the Class A competition, finished 11th in an 18-team field.

At least four players of Stroud Union's championship baseball team will be playing in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League this summer. And it will be interesting to watch Glenn Bisbing, who returns to the Stroudsburg A's, battling against Freddy Frantz who expects to see plenty of mound duty for the new Stroudsburg Poconos entry. Other Mountaineers planning to play for the Poconos are Tom Moreken and Dave Pierson. Bisbing has been hitting at a .470 clip for the unbeaten Mounties.

But before these boys start summer ball, there still remains two obstacles for Stroud Union which hopes to complete its first undefeated diamond season in history. They are Pocono Mountain on Wednesday and East Stroudsburg on Saturday. The Mountaineers, who finished a perfect Lehigh Valley League campaign with a 7-0 record, will be seeking their 11th and 12th wins against these two Monroe County schools this week.

Seven East Stroudsburg State College students who are members of the New Jersey Women's Lacrosse Assn. will be playing in the National Lacrosse Tournament June 6-7 at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J. They include freshmen Michael Ann Krysa, Barbara Huston and Alberta Hoover and juniors Karen Burke, Jane Markert, Alice Buck and Eileen Ward.

Low Carpenter, former flanker back, running back and reserve quarterback of the Green Bay Packers who is now serving as end coach for the Vikings, will be on the staff of the second annual football clinic at Pocono Crest this year. Jack Gregory, head grid mentor at East Stroudsburg State College, also will be on this year's staff. They will join Fred (Fuzzy) Thurston and Ray Nitschke of the Packers, and Roger LeClerc of the Chicago Bears. Gordie Helms, quarterback of the Cleveland Bulldogs of the United Football League, also returns to the camp this summer. First session of the camp will be held June 15-20; the second session June 21-26. Nearly 300 athletes are expected for this session.

Angels Batter Baltimore, 9-4

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Los Angeles Angels pounded out 16 hits, including homers by Dick Simpson and Felix Torres, and whipped the Baltimore Orioles 9-4 Sunday.

Joe Adcock knocked in three runs with a pair of doubles, Albie Pearson drove in two with a bases-loaded single, while Jim Fregosi and Jim Piersall contributed three singles apiece to the Los Angeles attack.

Reliever Willie Smith launched the sixth inning rally which broke a 4-4 tie when he doubled as a pinch hitter. Smith scored on a single by Piersall and after Fregosi singled, Adcock dou-

Stock Driver Dies In Crash

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (AP)—A three-car pileup on Victory highway Saturday night killed a Pennsylvania stock car driver when his car hit a concrete retaining wall.

Otto Harwl, 41, of Easton, was killed during the 23rd lap of a 25-lap feature race at the Orange County fairgrounds near here. The other two drivers involved in the crash apparently were not hurt. They are Ray Cook of Wyckoff, N.J., and Wayne Murdoch, 43, of Tillson, N.Y.

Clark Gets Pole Position For Memorial Day '500'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—road-racing champion second in Speedy Scott Jimmy Clark, who shoved the reengine revolution into high gear at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, owns "what I was hoping for even though I didn't say anything."

That's the coveted pole position for the Memorial Day 500-mile race at the storied 2 1/2-mile asphalt oval.

The 28-year-old Clark, world-road-racing champion second in last year's classic in his green Lotus-Ford, will be joined in this year's starting front row by two other, rear-engine Ford-powered cars.

Forced into the second row, and both obviously disappointed with their speeds in Saturday's opening day of qualifications, were the darlings of the conventional front-engine Offenhauser set—defending champion Par-nelli Jones and 1961 Indy winner A. J. Foyt.

Jones, a 30-year-old speedster from Torrance, Calif., took the inside position on the second row and observed:

"These Fords are working us. Offy boys pretty hard. I'm just happy to get in the race on the first day because it gets me up close to the front."

"They'd just better stand on it race day," he warned the rear-engine drivers.

Foyt, after a day of mechanical trouble, finally qualified in the middle of the second row and also vowed to challenge the front row rear-engine drivers during the May 30 grind.

"Remember, it takes 500 miles on race day," Foyt said in reference to the short four-lap, 10-mile qualifying runs.

The boyish-looking Clark was joined in the front row by another youthful driver—27-year-old Bobby Marshman—and by a veteran—two-time Indianapolis winner Roger Ward, a graying 43.

Set The Pace

The freckle-faced Marshman, driving an independently entered Lotus-Ford, had set the pace up to a top speed of 160 miles an hour in practice, but dropped off in his qualifying run—placing the blame both on gusty winds and himself.

Clark's average speed for the four qualifying laps was 158.8 miles per hour and Marshman's was 157.9.

Clark's teammate on the Lotus-Ford racing team and seventh-place finisher last year, Dan Gurney, filled out the second row with Jones and Foyt.

Boosts Earnings

The victory, with a clocking of 1:36.45, as compared to Nashua's Preknackness and track record of 1:34.3-5, was worth $121,200 and boosted Northern Dancer's career earnings to $519,092.

The Dancer has won his last seven races after finishing third in his 3-year-old debut last Feb. 10. His over-all record for 17 starts shows 14 victories, two seconds and one third.

With Hill Rise the odds-on choice of the crowd of 35,975 and favorite over Northern Dancer for the second straight race, the winner paid $6.20, $3.60 and $2.20.

Northern Dancer Eyes Triple Crown

By ORLO ROBERTSON

BALTIMORE (AP)—Northern Dancer, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was only 1 1/2 miles away from the coveted triple crown Sunday. And who is to say the Canadian dazler won't complete it June 6 at Aqueduct in the Belmont Stakes?

Surely there was nothing back of him last Saturday in the $176,700 Preakness at Pimlico that figures to offer the son of Nearctic a serious argument when the distance stretches out to the 1 1/2 miles of the Belmont. Only eight 3-year-olds ever have won the triple crown. The last was Citation in 1948.

Offers Challenge

Trainer Horatio Luro, ever gracious but hard-put to keep from being a little cocky, tossed out a challenge to any followers of Hill Rise.

"We are ready for a match race at any distance from five-eighths of a mile to any distance. My horse is quicker. Bill Hartack told me that my horse was tired at the finish. But so was every other horse."

Trainer Bill Finnegan had no excuses for Hill Rise, who was beaten by a head for second money by the improving The Scoundrel as Northern Dancer hit the finish line with 2 1/4 lengths to spare.

Another Crack

Hill Rise, however, will take another crack at this two-time conqueror in the Belmont Stakes.

"I think he is a mighty tough horse, a little better than most people thought," said 73-year-old Finnegan. "Northern Dancer moves faster and that is the difference."

Mess Tenney, trainer of Rex Ellsworth's The Scoundrel, was happy over the second place finish of his rangy but awkward striding California-owned colt.

"He is getting a little better with each race. As for the Belmont—well, we'll wait and see."

Boosts Earnings

The victory, with a clocking of 1:36.45, as compared to Nashua's Preknackness and track record of 1:34.3-5, was worth $121,200 and boosted Northern Dancer's career earnings to $519,092.

Olympic Fight Trials Start

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Eighty of the country's top boxers, ranging from the 112-pound flyweights to a 263-pound school-boy heavyweight, start throwing punches Monday in the three-day Olympic Trials that will determine the American team for the Tokyo Olympics.

Competition gets under way Monday with 40 bouts on the afternoon and evening program.

The 20 semifinals will be held Tuesday night and the 10 finals Wednesday night.

The winners of the 19 divisions and a number of alternates will make up the squad for the Tokyo Games, Oct. 10-24.

Free Admission

Site of the Trials is the outdoor, uncovered 18,000-seat Singer Bowl at the World's Fair. Admission is free to visitors who have paid their admission fee to the fair grounds.

In the field are the Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force champions, the National AAU and Golden Gloves titleholders, and the winners of Eastern and Western regional trials.

Most attention in the Trials will be focused on Buster Mathis, a 19-year-old, 6-3, 263-pounder from Grand Rapids, Mich., who won the National AAU heavyweight crown by outpointing Al Wilson, the Marine and Inter-Service champion. Wilson, a six-foot, 26-year-old leatherneck from Camp Pendleton, also is entered.

Leading Prospect

Another leading Olympic prospect is Jesse Valdez, a 16-year-old welterweight from Houston. The teen-age boxing whiz upset Quincy Daniels, a bronze medal winner in the 1960 Olympics, in the AAU tournament. Daniels, 22, is an Air Force man from Seattle.

Daniels and the bantamweight Nick Spanakos of Brooklyn are the only members of the 1960 Rome team back for another try at Olympic honors. Spanakos, a soldier stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., fought as a featherweight at Rome and was eliminated in the first round.

The United States shared the gold medal honors with Italy in the 1960 Olympics, each winning three titles. None of the three Yank title winners will be back, however.

Cassius Clay, the light heavyweight winner, now is the world pro heavyweight king. Skeeter McChure of Toledo, the light middleweight ruler, is a pro middleweight.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pete Ward's two-out single in the eighth inning scored Al Weis from second base and gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the Washington Senators Sunday.

Chuck Cottier had tied the score 2-2 for the Senators in the seventh with his first home run, and third hit, of the season.

Marshall Bridges retired the first batter in the eighth but Weis singled, moved up on Floyd Robinson's tap to the mound, and scored on Ward's single through the infield to right.

Al Koch limited Chicago to three hits through the first five innings, but he walked Weis with one out in the sixth. Robinson followed with his fourth home run.

Juan Pizarro won his fourth game without a loss although Hoyt Wilhelm took over in the eighth. Pizarro gave up a run in the first on singles by Don Zimmer, Chuck Clinton and Moose Skovron.

Don Lock tripled for the Senators with one out in the ninth, but Don Most replaced Wilhelm and struck out Don Lepert and got Cottier on a ground ball.

Scott Backs Grain Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., urged the agriculture department Sunday to continue its emergency feed grain program in Pennsylvania until Oct. 1.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Scott noted that surplus government grain was made available in Pennsylvania because of cause of dry weather in 1962 and 1963 but the program is scheduled to expire July 15.

Feed crops now under cultivation, Scott said, won't be ready for harvest until this fall and a shortage of feed corn still exists in Pennsylvania.

"I respectfully urge you to extend the emergency feed program through Oct. 1, 1964," Scott wrote. "By this date, the harvest of the corn crops should allow the dairy industry of Pennsylvania to return to its natural economic balance."

Smith Predicts Morse Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Francis R. Smith, Democratic city chairman, predicts that Otis B. Morse will be reelected chairman of the party's state committee at a reorganization meeting in Harrisburg May 27.

Smith said Saturday he based his prediction on the fact that a group of organization leaders
